Dear Woody,

I've been wanting to thank you for taping the brief interview back in February. And for so kindly showing Ben and I around your workplace and home. And for the gift of the catalogues. And for permitting me to include Art of Memory in my video series for the BBC, White Noise. So this brief letter will have to carry a good deal of gratitude.

I've now completed the White Noise programme that includes Art of Memory in its entirety, and I'm really very pleased with it. (I'm afraid that, because I had already started discussing a deal with EAI, I have been working out the deal with them -- next time I'll know better and will come directly to you and Steina.) The programme will be the fourth in the series, and should be shown in June or July -- I'll let you know exact details later. I hope the audience will be ready, after a number of shorter, easier pieces in the previous programmes, to appreciate something as complex, ambitious and demanding as Art of Memory is. I'm looking forward to reactions.

I was fascinated to learn a little about your new project, and I'd love the opportunity to find out more. If you'd permit it, I'd like to somehow find a way of writing seriously about, or perhaps producing a TV programme about, your work and that of Steina. I hope we can stay in touch, and I trust that we'll meet again before too long.

Please pass on my best wishes to Steina,

And once again, my thanks,

Yours,

Dear Woody,

RE: The Art of Memory

Thank you for submitting the above-mentioned tape into the awards section of the Australian Video Festival. The tape has been included in the Independent Video Selection. Please see the attached programme for the screening dates and venues for the Independent programme. The tapes will be judged by a panel of judges during the Festival screenings, and the award winners will be announced on the final night of the Australian Video Festival.

Please find enclosed a receipt for your entry fees, for your records. Also enclosed is a copy of a flyer for the Festival screenings for your information.

Thank you for your interest in, and support of, the third Australian Video Festival.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Langer
Director
Australian Video Festival
2) Gestures and movements

I am also looking at the "Sun Dance", the version we have and since the project is about Man and War, I am thinking of almost a silhouette work against the sky of a major Sun Dance segment. To follow my esthetics you would generate closed loops of repeating movement material, which I would use in context of sound sampling and repeating. The images, shot from below would have exaggerated menacing character.... (And there is a pack of Indian youth (from Taos Pueblo) involved in the Indian version of a Break Dance Their pursuits are relentless, over the stones, edges, slopes and cliffs, they begin to stone the Creature, then even you...??)

3) The Journey

In order to obtain more complete visual narrative text, I have to send you across the landscape towards the destination: It is the peak of an old volcano, dominating the landscape in the background. Even if it is extinct, in this moment its rim glows brightly illuminated by a source well hidden behind the rim. What sets you into motion? A physical force? The fear? A curiosity? In this rugged landscape there are countless features, small crevasses, fields of huge stones, vertical cracks in the canyon walls. I will implant light sources in some of them, to catch the light on your face as you travel through. In reverse, I will use the light points as a source of images, emitted from earth. So, the landscape contains not only images placed on its surface, but the interior also contains them. Your role here is the archetypical situation of a hero or a protagonist going through a process of narrative build-up toward a crisis and catharsis. Right from the beginning (after the "Introduction to the landscape") you are shadowed by someone. We feel his presence throughout your journey, and after all the difficulties, just before you reach your destination (the rim), we slowly reveal the figure. It is an American Native in his symbolic costume, holding a bow and an arrow. It pierces your back and you fall down paralyzed.... What is behind the rim? Probably a spaceship, manned by a young crew. The ship is about to take off through a large opening in the clouds. Looking down at the "Terra Encantada", tears stream down their cheeks. All you can see from the floor of the ship:....or:...

P.S. There is no dialog. If anything is to be spoken, it will be an internal comment.

I am thinking about your costume, but have not made the choice. It will probably be something you have, civil, slightly better, something one commits suicide in.

I will be in touch as it clarifies in my mind,

Love, Woody
Some clarifications about the submitted images, sounds and text for the "Art of Memory" PROJECT:

The images of land and objects are selected approximately, their final configuration will be decided in the final composition of Land/Object/Protagonist. So the materials are the basic element, suggesting the compositional possibility. The same applies to the sounds. They are selected with no precise tie to the images. The texts are excerpts from the correspondence with Daniel Nagrin, Dancer/Actor/Coreographer (the main protagonist) and the text is in a constant development, as are all of the other components of the project.

Dear Woody:

Enclosed are the notes I have prepared in draft form; with your input, corrections, additions, etc., I will have a final version set in type for free distribution during the screening of The Art of Memory at ICP and for mailing to our 500-name video list. (This will assure, by the way, that anyone who picked up the draft notes will be sure to get the final program.)*

In light of our conversation today, I think it might be helpful to add a few lines about the tape as part of a trilogy, with The Commission as the more linear narrative, organized visually to stress the 2-D image, in a form suitable to the operatic, Romantic 19th-century theme. If you wish to comment on the third tape you project, this too would be enriching. "The Brotherhood" is a title with Mafia associations, of course, but on an equally old level, with holy orders. The Satanic does seem to underlie Parts I and II, doesn't it? One wonders about III...

Also in light of our conversation, I'd recast the technical phrasing in the draft to be more accurate. Please advise.

I enclose a copy of the write-up in the Oct. 4 issue of the Village Voice, plus a copy of the press release our Publicity Dept. has sent out.

You would have enjoyed our Friday, Sept. 25 reception for the tape: the white wine was shared with Juan and Marilyns Downey, Rick Feist, Joan Jonas, Joan Logue, Ira Schneider, Davison Giglioti, Franc Towers, and a number of others. Our visitors are very impressed by it, and there's a possibility of further coverage, the PR people tell me. Thanks so much for letting us screen it!

Looking forward to talking to you!

Curator

* Had I been able to reach you, I would of course have cleared these notes with you sooner, so that typesetting could have proceeded. But of course better late than never!
Dear Mr Vasulka

I was lucky enough to see your video The Art of Memory: the Legend at the Institute of Contemporary Arts, Boston, some months ago. It was a marvellous experience. I stayed to watch the piece twice.

Next February we are opening an exhibition in our Twentieth Century Gallery called PHOTOGRAPHY NOW. The exhibition is our contribution to the sesquicentennial celebrations of the announcement of the invention of photography in 1839. Our intention is to touch on many areas of distinguished achievement in the photographic medium, with the aim of providing a new generation of artists with a sense of many different avenues of creative exploration. We should very much like to show The Art of Memory: the Legend as a major element in this exhibition. It seems to me that your work provides a wonderfully exciting commentary on still photographs - among many other things - and that it would give our audience an exciting point of departure into new ways of thinking about and experiencing photography.

I do hope that you will be interested in working with us on this exhibition. It runs here 15 February to 30 April 1989. There is a possibility that it might travel to Germany and the Soviet Union but no firm plans have as yet been made. We should like your video to run continuously in the exhibition, daily, and we should like to have the benefit of your advice on how we ensure continuous high quality transmission over such a long period. We should also like to hear from you about costs. I should also say that we are publishing a catalogue in association with Verlag Dirk Nishen, Berlin, and we should very much like to illustrate stills from the video and to include material about you, your work and this particular piece. I do hope you can help.

Yours sincerely

Dear Woody,

I am pleased to inform you that your tape entitled "The Art of Memory" has been awarded an Honorable Mention in the Best Digital Effects Video category in the 13th Atlanta Film & Video Festival. A record number of entries (379) were received this year, so competition was strong, and the judges' deliberations were very difficult. We've enclosed a complete list of this year's winners.

Your tape will be screened on Sunday night, May 14th, as part of the "Ways of Seeing" program. In addition, you will receive a $25 exhibition fee after the screening.

IMAGE has a non-circulating library of film and video that include past winners of our festival. This library is used solely for non-theatrical, non-broadcast study purposes for members during office hours, with no tapes leaving the premises. As there are no video art collections in the entire Southeast, we feel this collection will be an important source of information for people in this region, and we would like to include your tape.

A private collector and FRIEND of IMAGE is interested in purchasing the winning video tapes for his growing collection. If you are interested in obtaining information regarding the sale of your tape, please contact us at IMAGE. Otherwise, we will keep the tape you submitted for inclusion in our library.

Feel free to call if you have any questions. Congratulations.

Sincerely,

Dear Woody,

This is to confirm that your tape Art of Memory (1987) will be shown as part of the 1989 Biennial Exhibition at the Whitney Museum of American Art. The film and video selections will be shown in cycles, from April 27 - July 9, 1989. A complete schedule is forthcoming.

We will be assembling 3/4-inch dubs which will include your work and that of others for use during this exhibition. Therefore, we will need to borrow a 3/4-inch dubbing master from you, which we must receive no later than Friday, March 3, 1989. It will be returned to you as soon as it has been dubbed. If you have any questions about the procedure we will follow, please call me at (212) 570-3617. Please also send us a complete list of production credits, which will be included in the offset screening schedule.

The film and video selections for the 1989 Biennial Exhibition will be circulated by The American Federation of Arts. They will be contacting you directly about this. All inquiries concerning this distribution agreement should be addressed to Sam McElfresh, The American Federation of Arts, 41 East 65th St., New York, N.Y. 10021 (212) 988-7700.

Please return to us a signed copy of this letter and an invoice for $250 that includes your social security number; you will be paid before the Biennial opens. The invoice is essential to avoid delays in payment.

You are responsible for securing written permission to use any copyrighted material contained in your work. By signing and returning the enclosed copy of this letter, you agree to indemnify and hold harmless the Whitney Museum of American Art from any loss or damage arising from any infringement of copyright resulting from the exhibition of your work at the Museum.

Tom Armstrong, the Museum Director, will also be contacting you about the various openings and events held in connection with the Biennial, which opens April 26, 1989.
Thank you for your cooperation and please call if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Lucinda Furlong

Dear Daniel,

Look at the first draft of the proposal to see the origins of this project. Much has clarified since, and here is the overall form as of to-day.

The work as it is developing, has the structure of "Songs", each about 10 min. long. The themes of the songs in progress are: "The Spanish Civil War", "The Pacific War" and "The European War". The other themes to come will extend the historical framework back to the origins of the Soviet State and forward to...ETC...

As for your participation: (on Sep 21-22, location Taos)

First of all, our two days will provide basic frame for a song, or will create an overture segment for the series. (I am also thinking about the footage of the "Watergate", we did together, visually very active...). It is very probable that we shall continue working in January again, to have more of your interaction with more segments. The action we are going to develop here can be split into three parts:

1) An introduction to the landscape.

You arrive by a car to the rim of a canyon. It is a casual affair. You are returning to a place you have been before, a visitor rather than a tourist. It is toward the end of the day. Suddenly, across the canyon you see the creature. It is a tall naked man, head without hair, large wings on his back. Here are images, you will facilitate: Your presence here mediates changes of the landscape and newsreel object there. We are looking over your shoulder or your face in almost a profile, a face, with certain anxiety and tension, which the events of history may evoke. There will be a lot of that, if just as a dramatic component to later Landscape-Object-Protagonist collage. In a larger frame composition, you are (with the mythical guide of Gustave Dore's winged creature) a part of the landscape, a part of the battlefied in the brotherhood of men...
